

Blizzards of January

quaint wobbly table, Covered with handwoven cloth Of brown and gold, Thickly frayed around the edges. Horses are neighing sleighs are dusted with snow.

Warm furry mittens are quickly discarded. And replaced, By hot steaming muffins, And cups of hot cinnamon chocolate Capped with a thick

Bubbly white foam, To add to the warmth And comfort Of chilled red fingers,